

Learning Recovery Survey Questions: For Students

Supplemental Panorama survey content for back to school 2021-22

Understand students' experiences with academic learning last year, what they need in order to learn this year, and their readiness for in-person learning in 2021-22.

About These Survey Questions

What do your students need to feel supported academically, socially, and emotionally in the transition back to school for 2021-22?

Use this new Panorama survey content to gather and act on student feedback to promote learning recovery in the fall. Understand students' experiences with academic learning last year, what they need in order to learn this year, and their readiness for in-person learning. Then, use the feedback to identify gaps in academic opportunity and to deliver interventions that build students' self-efficacy and classroom engagement.

The survey questions in this document cover two topic areas:

- Learning Recovery \(p. 3\): Students' reflections on their learning from last year and its impact on learning this year
- Readiness for Learning \(p. 4-5\): Students' perceptions of readiness for in-person learning this school year

If you are a Panorama partner, these survey questions are available as supplemental content to add to your Panorama student surveys on climate and SEL in the fall. The questions are for grades 3-12, and follow best practices in survey question design. If you are not yet a Panorama partner, contact us to learn more about our survey platform. We invite all educators to use these open-source questions, but ask that you please credit Panorama Education.

Panorama Education's feedback surveys, SEL platform, and MTSS intervention platform meet the criteria for allowable activities for ESSER I, II, and III, and align with the U.S. Department of Education's "Return to School Roadmap." Learn more on our funding page.
